

Gemma Mahoney

Gemma was appointed to the Governing Body as a co-opted governor in September 2017. She lives in Oxspring with her husband and two young daughters, one of whom attends Oxspring Primary School.

Gemma is employed part-time as a Business and Economics teacher at a secondary school in Rotherham, where she has taught since 2006. She is also responsible for overseeing the administration of BTEC qualifications across the school, and recognises how important vocational qualifications can be to pupils.

She joined the governing body at Oxspring Primary School after being a member of the school's Vision working party in 2016. She enjoyed working alongside pupils, staff, parents and governors, hearing about their opinions on the school's vision, and the direction they saw the school taking in future. She became a governor in order to celebrate the achievements of the pupils, recognise the work of the staff and help strengthen Oxspring Primary School's reputation in the community.
